

I am appalled at the direction this measure would lead us to. Once again the big phone and cable companies are trying to squeeze out the little guy. That is certainly not the spirit of the internet. We need to keep it free and open to all.